

Notes on re-sizing our designs

All of the designs in this Anita Goodesign can be re-sized using an online software called pulse Ambassador. The software is on the website www.pulsemicro.com. The software is not a download but instead works online in a cloud based platform. You will need to visit the website and follow the instructions on how to operate the resizing software. You will still use the .PXF file that is included in all of our collections. The .PXF file is located in the designs folder under “pulse re-sizable files”. If you have an older version of ambassador installed on your computer already it will still open and resize our older designs, however the software is discontinued and no longer supported. We suggest visiting the website and following the tutorials for all future re-sizing efforts.
